FALL OF 1899.
LINDSLEY'S NURSERIES
WHITE HOUSE, NEW JERSEY.

SPECIAL PLANTERS LIST
PEACH TREES A SPECIALTY.

PEACH TREES.

THE GROWING OF PEACH TREES is one of my specialties, and I claim to produce and furnish my customers with the "best peach trees that grow." I have a choice stock to offer for Fall delivery at low prices. The indications are peach trees will be almost double the price next Spring that I offer them at this Fall. My peach trees are all grown from Tennessee natural peach seed, and are free from all disease.

 Certificate of "Nursery Inspection" with every shipment.

Amsden's June and Alexander's Early. Absolutely identical to all appearances of fruit and tree. Very early, fair size and good quality; nearly all red, flesh greenish white, very juicy.

Bray's Rareripe, Fruit large size, white with crimson cheek. Ripens first of October.

Beer's Smock. One of the most popular peaches grown for canning and evaporating. Very productive and of good quality. Ripens rather late: the trees are extra vigorous, and bear young.

Champion. Originated in Illinois, of the Old Mixon type, skin creamy white, with a red cheek, flesh white, sweet and delicious, large size, hardy in bud, strikingly handsome, freestone, ripens before Mountain Rose; leading all other peaches in price in the New York markets.

Crawford's Early. The true Crawford's Early is a most valuable market peach. It is a magnificent yellow-fleshed fruit, of large size and highly colored. Tree a moderate grower and extremely productive. Freestone. Middle of August.

Crawford's Late. In appearance resembles C. Early, but larger and even more beautiful, and ripens from two to three weeks later. One of the best and most profitable peaches.

Chair's Choice. A large and handsome late yellow peach, with conspicuous red cheek. The flesh is deep yellow, running to red at the stone, and is of high flavor, juicy and melting; it is freestone. The tree is hardy, vigorous and productive.

Early Rivers. Large, color pale greenish white, with blush, thin skin, prolific.

Foster. A good, hardy northern peach, originating near Boston; very large and round, about the same as Crawford's Early, before which it ripens, in size, but of much better quality; a yellow freestone.

Fox's Seedling. A native of New Jersey, where it has always proved very productive. A late freestone, with round fruit, a little compressed; skin white with red cheek.

Globe. A Pennsylvania variety of great size and beauty, and of exquisite flavor. Globular in form, all the fruit on the tree running uniformly large; golden yellow with red blush; flesh firm and juicy, yellow, shaded with red toward the stone, from which it frees itself perfectly. A splendid shipper.

Hill's Chili. Of medium size, dull yellow and a prolific bearer; particularly good market variety. Last of September.

Mountain Rose. One of the best and most reliable early peaches. Medium size, white suffused with carmine; flesh white, melting, abounding with rich, sweet juice. Early August.

Newark Seedling. Resembles Reeves' Favorite, but two weeks later. A grand peach. Ripen with Crawford's Late.

Oldmixon Free. Uniformly large, white, partly covered with bright red; flesh white, tender, rich and juicy. One of the best and most reliable. Popular everywhere. Last of August.

The Iron Mountain still continues to be the best late White Peach, and the only really frost-proof peach yet produced. The accompanying engraving was reproduced from a photograph. Tree very hardy. Begins to bear when but two years old, and bears good crops everywhere. Fruit very large, equaling in size Crawford's Late, creamy white and a freestone. Flesh firm in texture, consequently a good shipping peach. The quality of Iron Mountain is superb, excelling in this respect any other peach. The season of ripening is with Beer's Smock, and excels the latter in productiveness. Positively an "iron-clad" peach. This year (1899) when the peach crop was a failure, Iron Mountain bore good crops. PRICE, first-class, each 25 cts.; per dozen $2.00, per 100 $10.00. Second-class, each 20 cts.; per dozen $1.50, per 100 $8.00.

Third-class, each 15 cents, per dozen $1.00, per 100 $6.00. Third-class by mail post-paid, each 20 cents, per dozen $1.50.

Reeves' Favorite. Large, round, yellow with red cheek, flesh yellow and of excellent quality. Tree hardy and prolific. September.

Stump of the World. Large, white with red cheek, flesh white, juicy and of high quality, very productive and profitable. In season it succeeds closely the Oldmixon Free.

Stevens' Rareripe. Large, fruit resembles an enlarged Oldmixon Free, of the highest color and very beautiful; very productive and free from disease. First of October.

Salway. Medium to large, yellow, freestone only when ripe, does fairly well on light land; later than the Smock.

Wonderful. A new very late peach of large size; yellow, freestone, productive and of remarkably long keeping qualities; season of ripening a few days after Smock.

Pride of Franklin. One of the finest yellow freestones in cultivation. Fruit very large, light yellow shaded with red on sun side. Ripens with Crawford's Late. A popular market variety in New Jersey.

Greensboro. This is the largest of all the very early peaches; twice the size of Alexander, and beautifully covered with light and dark red, shaded with yellow; ripens perfectly to the seed and with the Alexander; flesh white, juicy and good.

Carman. New, color creamy white or pale yellow; covered for the most part with a deep blush; freestone and ripens with Early Rivers; size large to very large. Any man who fails to plant Carman will soon learn his mistake.

Sneed. The earliest peach known; ten days earlier than Alexander. It is a Chinese seedling of medium size, as large as Alexander, better in quality.

Triumph. A yellow flesh peach of fine quality; skin light and dark red, which makes it a showy market peach; larger than Alexander, with which it ripens.
